1 Introduction

To ensure that the most important general characteristics of Immigrant panel households remain up-to-date, these are measured every month using a separate questionnaire, known as the household box. For every Immigrant panel household, a single contact person completes this questionnaire. The household box needs to be completed when joining the panel, before the household can start completing other questionnaires. Thereafter, the contact person is presented the household box every month to enter any changes that may have occurred.

Some of the questions in the household box concern the household, and others concern the individual household members. All questions of the questionnaire are completed by the household contact person only.

Variables at household level: `lftdhhh`, `aantalhh`, `aantalki`, `partner`, `woonvorm`, `woning`, `sted`, `nettohh_f`, `brutohh_f`, `simp`

Variables at individual level: `geslacht`, `positie`, `gebjaar`, `leeftijd`, `lftdcat`, `burgstat`, `belbezig`, `brutoink`, `brutoink_f`, `nettoink/netinc`, `nettoink_f`, `brutocat`, `nettocat`, `oplzon`, `oplmet`, `oplc`, `herkomstgroep` (published from December 2010 onwards), `herkomstland` (published from September 2011 onwards), `doetmee`

From every field work period, a data file containing details from the household box is made available. The variables in these data files are presented per person, including variables that contain information on the entire household. These data represent a snapshot of the situation at the end of the field work period concerned.

2 Codebook Background Variables Immigrant Panel

This codebook describes the general background variables of the Immigrant panel households. The variable names are indicated in bold and correspond to the names in the dataset.

From September 2011 see file: 'imputation income LISS Immigrant panel from sept 2011.pdf', Klaas de Vos, 2011.

¹ Since some people prefer not to make their income information available to CentERdata, a 0 (zero) can mean two different things: (1) that there is no income at all, or (2) that a panel member does not know what the income is or does not want to make that information available to us. In the second case, panel members ought to indicate that they do not know what the income is (-13). Unfortunately, not all panel members do so. It is impossible to determine who these panel members are, however.

2 Introduction

In December 2013, the LISS-I panel¹ completed a questionnaire on politics and values.

The questionnaire was presented to 1761 panel members, and it was fully completed by 1354 respondents (response percentage 76.9%).

¹ Reference to LISS-I panel data in text:

This paper makes use of data of the LISS (Longitudinal Internet Studies for the Social sciences) migrant panel administered by CentERdata (Tilburg University, The Netherlands).

3 Codebook

This codebook contains the questionnaire as administered to the LISS-I panel.

- The variable names are printed in bold and correspond to the names in the dataset.
- The questionnaire routing is printed in italics for each variable concerned.
- Open: answer box; no limit to the length of the answer.
- String: answer box allowing a maximum number of characters (standard is 255).
- The range within which a respondent could provide an answer for numerical variables is printed in the codebook in italics if this range was not visible to the respondent. If there were no limits to the range within which an answer could be provided, this is indicated in the codebook as 'integer'.
- The so-called 'fills' (variable text) are given between straight brackets [].
- Variables in between curly brackets {} are not part of the dataset, but the corresponding questions or text were part of the questionnaire.

The following questions are about norms and values.

The statements do not represent the opinion of the researchers, but are 'one-sided' or 'stereotypical' formulations to help us measure the values in question. Some questions may seem alike, but the questionnaire deliberately includes them as a way to measure values as accurately as possible.

Our aim is not to measure what is desirable for you personally, but what your norms and values are.

ka13a112 - ka13a114

For each statement, please indicate to what extent you agree or disagree.

ka13a112 A working mother's relationship with her children can be just as close and warm as that of a non-working mother.

ka13a113 A child that is not yet attending school is likely to suffer the consequences if his or her mother has a job.

ka13a114 Overall, family life suffers the consequences if the mother has a full-time job.

What is your opinion on the following statements?

ka13a119 It is good if society consists of people from different cultures.

ka13a120 It is difficult for a foreigner to be accepted in the Netherlands while retaining his/her own culture.

ka13a121 It should be made easier to obtain asylum in the Netherlands.

ka13a122 Legally residing foreigners should be entitled to the same social security as Dutch citizens.

ka13a123 There are too many people of foreign origin or descent in the Netherlands.

ka13a124 People of foreign origin or descent are not accepted in the Netherlands.

ka13a125 Some sectors of the economy can only continue to function because people of foreign origin or descent work there.

ka13a126 It does not help a neighborhood if many people of foreign origin or descent move in.

What is your opinion on the following statements?

ka13a127 Married people are generally happier than unmarried people.

ka13a128 People that want to have children should get married.

ka13a129 A single parent can raise a child just as well as two parents together.

ka13a130 It is perfectly fine for a couple to live together without marriage intentions.

ka13a131 For a couple that wants to get married, it is good to first start living together.

ka13a132 A divorce is generally the best solution if a married couple cannot solve their marital problems.

ka13a133 It is all right for a married couple with children to get divorced.
